Goodwill Industries Thanks Donors

Dear Editor,

November is typically the time of year we all pause to give thanks. With this in mind, we here at Goodwill Industries of the Inland Counties want to take this opportunity to thank our many contributors and store customers for their continuing loyalty and support.

The donations that are made at our 18 Attended Collection Centers, as well as the dollars spent in Goodwill retail outlets, give us the necessary revenue to provide many valuable training programs to men and women from Riverside and San Bernardino Counties who are disabled and/or disadvantaged. Without this constant support human service programming would suffer, and more importantly, so would people in need.

So, on behalf of the many people we serve, those who are disabled and/or disadvantaged, we would like to say, "THANKS—FOR—GIVING" to Goodwill Industries.

Sincerely,
John Rankin
President

Gray Measure To End DoD Footdragging On Contract Awards For Blacks

The House Committee on Appropriations approved an amendment by U.S. Rep. William H. Gray, III (D-Pa.) that directs the Department of Defense to carry out previous legislative and executive mandates to award at least five percent of its procurement and research and development funds to minority firms and historically Black colleges and universities (HBCUs).

Gray said, "The Department of Defense has conceded that its efforts to date to increase the participation of HBCUs and minority firms in procurement and research and development programs have been inadequate."

Sugar Ray Leonard Signs Multi-Year Contract With Coors

"Sugar" Ray Leonard

GOLDEN, COLO.—Coors beer has added a touch of "sugar" to its winning formula through its association with Sugar Ray Leonard, retired World Boxing Council middleweight champion.

Leonard has signed a multi-year contract with Coors beer, the flagship brand of Adolph Coors Company. In addition to advertising and personal appearance for the brand, Leonard will create and oversee the Coors/Sugar Ray Leonard Professional Boxing Team, a group of some of the nation's finest young professional boxers.

"Sugar Ray represents the values and spirit of determination Americans look up to," said Bob Fox, Coors brand director. "Our company strives for the same winning edge that took Ray from Olympic Gold to his great upset of Marvelous Marvin Hagler earlier this year."

"I'm really pleased and excited about entering into this association with Coors beer," said Leonard. "I'm looking forward to a lasting relationship," he added.

His West Coast announcement was made Monday, Nov. 16, 1987, at a press luncheon held at the Forum Club. Leonard spoke at length about past fights and how he beat Hagler. In response to a question from Black Voice on the condition of his eyes, Leonard first of all thanked us for the question, he enumerated, saying no one seems to care about his eyes now that the fight with Hagler is over. He said his eyes are fine. Leonard had explained that Pediatricians, Podiatrists, and Physicians of other specialties had all warned him about his eye, however it was his ophthalmologist who advised him that he would be alright.

and Air Force, dated June 16th, 1987, the Deputy Secretary of Defense says, "However, HBCU participation in DoD-sponsored programs has not reached full potential. The HBCU program must be supported more vigorously."

"My amendment forcefully reminds the Defense Department that its minority contracting efforts are being watched closely by Congress."

"I have every expectation that they can and must meet the goals established by Presidential executive order and by Congress."

Gray concluded, "The significance of the goal to minority institutions is clear. If the 5 percent goal had been reached for fiscal 1987 some $5 billion in contracts and grants would have been awarded to minority institutions and HBCUs."

Our Students Are Not Photocopiers

Earlier this month I read an account of a speech delivered by the chief executive officer of a major American manufacturer of photocopiers. To my surprise, the CEO had not discussed the issue of quality-control in the production of copiers or the shortcomings in his company's marketing and servicing programs.

Any of that would have formed an appropriate topic. The CEO's firm has steadily lost market-share to overseas competitors—notably to Japanese corporations that produce machines that are superior to, less expensive than, and better serviced than his own product.

But instead of addressing defects in a segment of American industry he knows quite well, the CEO chose to bewail the "50 percent defect rate" in American . . . education:

"A fourth of our kids drop out," he complains, and "another fourth" are all but illiterate when they graduate from high school.

To counter those shortcomings, the CEO proposes massive changes in the way schools do business:

A major problem, he says, is that "public education is a . . . monopoly." To introduce "competition," the CEO advocates giving students free choice: They'd be permitted to "attend any public school they wanted to."

Schools that attracted a lot of students—presumably the "good" schools—would get a lot of money. That would force the other schools to shape up.

The idea sounds good. It's simple. It says "reward merit and punish inadequacy."

But the CEO's idea cannot survive even a cursory second thought.

Imagine, for a moment, that Copyville has two high schools, each enrolling 2,500 students. School A graduates mostly very well-educated students; F produces mostly drop-outs and functional illiterates.

All the students in F will want to go to A, right?

Good—let's give them that choice.

We now have 5,000 students at A and none at F. But that gives A a few problems. The school has, for example, only 100 teachers, only 100 classrooms, and only 2,500 sets of textbooks—just enough, that is, for 2,500 students.

Where will A quickly obtain 100 more teachers, 100 more classrooms, and 2,500 more sets of textbooks?

Well, of course! The teachers at F, the empty classrooms at F, and all those unused textbooks at F—they will exactly meet A's need.

And what will the CEO's plan have changed? It will, for a short while, produce overcrowding at A. It may result in both high schools being designated "campuses" of A. And there may even be some shuffling of students and teachers between the two campuses. And what earthly good will any of that do?

Good Intentions

The CEO advanced, or repeated, several other "ideas" for reforming our schools. They were all well-intentioned:

"Schools whose performance is unacceptable [sh]ould be closed down." (Good! And where will their students go? To School A?)

The CEO's ideas were also, virtually without exception, somewhere between the visionary and the uninformed.

"Every student, without exception, should master a core curriculum equivalent to college entrance requirements . . . Kids who need extra help should get it." (Great! We teachers agree. But classes in California are so crowded that teachers are lucky if they can give five minutes a day to the unique needs of any one individual student.)

Though the CEO's criticisms were too sweeping and his proposals too simplistic, I welcome his concern for the quality of education.

It is surely in the best interests of the business community to support and promote a strong public schools system. Both the Carnegie Foundation nationally and the Business Roundtable in California have called attention to our economy's dependence upon a skilled and well-educated workforce. Those and other organizations recognize that business leaders and educators must work together to ensure the well-being of both their enterprises—and of our society as a whole.

But captains of business and industry make no constructive contribution when they attack our schools with misleading figures and fatuous solutions. They make far less of a contribution than they could when they sit on task forces and commissions that propose "reforms"—but then disappear, their reports abandoned to float on the breeze, when it comes time to invest the time, money, and energy needed to implement their reforms.

We all want our schools to improve—nobody more so than teachers. We can use all the help we can get. We ask only that our would-be allies take the time to study the real problems of education—and then follow through by working with us to ensure that the problems of our schools are seriously and sensibly addressed.

Great American Smokeout Slated For November 25th

The 10th annual Great American Smokeout Run, a traditional event that celebrates good health and life without smoking, is scheduled for Sunday, November 22, this year along the same scenic route in Riverside it has followed in its nine previous runnings.

As in previous years the run will include both half-marathon and 10-kilometer distances, while a new 5-kilometer run for less experienced runners will also be added this year.

The entry fee this year is $6, with an optional added $5 for a long-sleeved t-shirt. After November 13 a late entry fee of $2 will be added.

The GAS run, sanctioned by The Athletic Congress, will have awards for top finishers in nine age categories for men and women.

Registration begins at 6:30 a.m. and the runs begin at 8 a.m. The half-marathon and 10-K events will follow a route along Riverside's historic, eucalyptus-lined Victoria Avenue and the Gage Canal, while the 5-K run will take off in the opposite direction on Central Avenue and is expected to conclude before the longer distance runners finish.

Entry forms are available at running and sports shops throughout the Inland Empire and from the American Cancer Society's Inland Empire Unit, 2060 Chicago Ave., Suite A-17, Riverside, CA 92507.

The run is a companion event to the annual day each November when the American Cancer Society urges smokers throughout the country to kick the smoking habit for 24 hours, in hopes that it will be the start of a more permanent smoke-free life.

"Of course, the reason we hold the GAS run every year is the same, whether you run a mile or a marathon - to help emphasize the benefits of living without smoking," said race director, Jim Davidson.

Proceeds from the run go to the American Cancer Society's programs of research, educational programs and service to cancer patients in Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

Electronic timers will tabulate race results on the spot. Medical assistance will be available for those who might require it. Water stops will be positioned throughout the course.

Winners will receive trophies and gifts at an awards ceremony immediately following the half-marathon run. In addition, merchandise donated by local sponsors will be given as door prizes.

Information about the GAS run is available by telephone to (714) 683-6415.

Dining Out With An Eye On Your Cholesterol

Dear Dr. Levister: What can I do to watch my cholesterol when dining out?

J.R.

Dear J.R.: Some enlightened family restaurants are highlighting those items on their menus that meet the American Heart Association's recommended guidelines for low cholesterol.

Take care of your heart and avoid high cholesterol foods such as eggs, egg slices, french fries, butter, onion rings, gravy, sour cream, whole milk, bacon, sausage, buttermilk biscuits and cheese.

Egg-Beaters, low fat milk, low fat cottage cheese and margarine and available upon request from many restaurants. Ask your server.

Caution with the high fat salad dressings. A dash of vinegar or the juice of a fresh squeezed lemon will work wonders.

When the sandwich comes with french fries order a substitute such as cole slaw.

Try fresh fruit or sherbet instead of a high fat dessert.

Watch what you eat and lower your cholesterol. Look out for your body by limiting your cholesterol intake to 300 mg per day and your body will serve you well.

Dine out at restaurants with items on their menus indicating that they follow guidelines established by the American Heart Association for low saturated fat/low cholesterol diets.

Dr. Levister welcomes readers mail concerning their bodies but regrets he is unable to answer individual letters. Reader's questions will be incorporated in the column whenever possible. Letters to Dr. Levister can be addressed to him in care of Voice News, P.O. Box 1581, Riverside, Ca 92502.

Drunk Driving Detection Program More Than Just A Sobriety Checkpoint

A crime reduction program implemented November 2, combining 17 San Bernardino Police Officers from the specialized units of the Multiple Enforcement Team, Traffic and Community Reponse Unit is focusing on more than getting the drunk driver off the road. Operating on the premise that the majority of crimes are committed by individuals under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, San Bernardino Police expect to make an appreciable impact in the reduction of crime, such as, burglary, robbery, domestic violence and traffic collisions as a result of the DUI checkpoint program.

According to Sgt. Mike Bildt, one of the two Sergeants supervising the special program, location and times of the drunk driver checkpoints may vary. Bildt said plans to operate the sobriety checkpoints have been conducted in the vicinities of Baseline & G Streets and 9th and H Streets. The downtown locations were selected as a result of data analysis indicating the highest calls for service and the highest accident rates have occurred in these vicinities.

Since the program began (20) persons have been arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

CSUSB Black Student Union "Adopts" San Bernardino High School

Ceremonies held recently marked a newly formed alliance between San Bernardino High School and the Black Student Union (BSU) of Cal State University San Bernardino.

SBHS Principal Herbert Fischer says he feels the alliance will be a good one for the school. Dr. Fischer said, "Many of our students are interested in our local state university for continuation of their education. I believe that ties between the school and a student group at the college can do some things that will ease the transition for those who will be future Cal State students. The right kind of activities might even encourage some of our students who were not looking at college to set their sites on further education."

Present at the ceremony were San Bernardino High School's BSU, which included President- Chris Walton, Treasurer- Hardy Brown Jr., and Jerrod Dett- secretary.

CSUSB's Black Student Union President Paulette Brown feels the program will enhance the education of the high school students, while giving the college students a sense of purpose by helping the younger people. She was joined at the Adoption ceremony by James Rountree- Treasurer, Janine Brooks- Secretary, Camille Brown- Adoption Chairperson, Kenneth Foster- Fundraising Chairperson, and member Darryl Jernigan.

The Cal State BSU is planning a wide variety of activities in conjunction with the school. The activities will include: tutoring, education counseling, fund-raisers, and various cultural activities.

Also present were Superintendent E. Neal Roberts, Hardy Brown, and Orval Winters of the S.B. Unified School District. School Board Vice-President, Hardy Brown presented the CSUSB Black Student Union with a $100 check for their treasury.

Hardy Brown stated that we should be especially proud of this union. "The Cal State BSU students are forerunners because they are the first student group to take upon themselves to offer to reach back and help others make it to college," stated Brown.

Present from Cal State were Executive Dean Dr. Judith Rhymer, Dean Sidney Ribeau, Superintendent Dr. E. Neal Roberts signs adoption papers while Jerrod Dett observes.

Dean Aubrey Bonnett, BSU Advisor Jean Peacock, and from the office of the Dean of Students, Quentin Moses.

"Schools of the San Bernardino City Unified School District are involved in 'adoption' alliances with local businesses, institutions, or organizations. Every school has at least one such alliance, and many have multiple arrangements. When businesses, public entities, and even civic clubs establish a relationship with a single school, it helps to draw all segments of the community into positive involvement in public education," said Superintendent E. Neal Roberts.

His stellar career has been built on a foundation of truth and commitment, qualities that dominate his personal life as well. Of his own philosophy, Richie says, "You judge every man according to his own merit...You judge a man because of what he offers in his own work...basically that is the foundation of what I am about."

When not busy creating music, Richie makes time in his busy schedule to support various organizations and causes that are close to his heart, UNCF and USA for Africa.

Moreno Valley News

By Charles Ledbetter

Charles Ledbetter

Mayor Tanner: The Citizens of Moreno Valley are fortunate to have a person of the caliber of Mr. Ray Tanner as Mayor. Ray was elected for a one year term by unanimous vote last Tuesday night during the Council's Annual Reorganization Meeting. Former Mayor Judy Neiberger was praised by Tanner for her effort as the past leader of the City Council.

I look forward to working with Ray Tanner and doing all I can to help make Moreno Valley a model city for America. Ray was our Superintendent when I served on the Moreno Valley School Board.

For Our Children's Sake: I firmly believe, if an individual, a group, organization or club professes to have concern for the future of the youth of our community, they should model behavior that can be used to develop and live a positive, successful life. There is no excuse for leaders to practice one ideology while professing another. If principles of honesty are not practiced, our young people will practice what they see; whether it is for a drawing at some annual affair, or some underhanded technique in a classroom, church or social club. For our children's sake, we should practice what we preach. For the sake of our future generation we should conduct business in such a manner that it will stand the light of inquiry. For our children's sake.

Just Wondering: Is there an ordinance on the books or in the making that will require that residence with a back-yard pool, cover it during the off-season when it is not being used. With the spread of infectious diseases such as lock jaw, T.B. and others, perhaps this law should be given some thought. A pool of stale water full of fallen leaves, trash and other garbage is a very attractive place for flies, gnats, roaches, rats and other germ carrying insects and animals.

There have been times in the history of our world that entire nations were just about wiped out due to germs caused by society not properly taking care of waste material. At one time in history, society did not bury their dead properly as a result an entire nation was about wiped out. I am wondering if this is worth looking further into.

Free Pick-up Service: Sunnymead Disposal offered to pick-up. This was a free service. Some people did not attempt to place items out to be picked up. The junk is still in place.

Question: My wife and I are dealing with a teenage challenge. Our daughter, which is 16 years old and the oldest of three children, says she wants to be able to go out on dates like the other people at school. She rebels at any suggestion that she needs to wait and get herself ready for college. We don't want to "cramp" her, at the same time we do not want to turn her loose to do whatever she pleases. Where is the middle of the road?

C. and J. Brown, Highland

Answer: I'm assuming since you wrote me that your daughter is a Christian in a Christian family. Your daughter is definitely learning about life, parameters, and people. This can be an exciting, yet confusing time for adolescents. To keep up with the changing and maturing of your daughter, I would suggest you dedicate much time in prayer for her and spend quality time with her, availing yourself to answer her questions about life.

Kids today move extremely fast. Hollywood enforces it. The devil pushes it. However, it takes TIME to mature. Therefore we need to help our children do so.

In regards to dating, what is the purpose of dating? This is one area that even Christian families are oblivious. The purpose of dating is to prepare and make way for marriage. I oppose any other reason. I've seen too many people hurt through dating. God never intended for His children to experiment with Tom, Dick and Harry, Betty, Mary, and Sue. People WASTE time, energy, money and a good part of living so call dating. God said in

By Reginald Woods

Genesis 2:18, "It is NOT good that man should be alone; I will make a companion for him." God desires EVERYONE that desires a "life-long companion" to have one. However, many "jump the gun". They are "hot to trot" and get themselves into a mess. I do not believe in traditional dating. You get to know the opposite sex through meaningful friendships and maturing. I believe that dating should be reserved for those who are in the market for marriage, otherwise they spend time with someone else's future husband or wife. They give their time, money, effort, and sometimes body to someone else's future husband or wife. Who gets cheated? THEIR future husband or wife. Many come to the altar of marriage with a bag of leftovers.

Young people need to prioritize their life. Put God first. It is not until a person has established himself with God are they TRULY ready to date. And when they do date, it should be "date for a mate." Shouldn't God be involved in such a crucial issue as this? I would suggest that a 16 year old wait for sure and increase their relationship with God, learn more about life, and develop themselves where they can have something to really offer to another.

American Gospel Music

by Hilary Clay Hicks
The American Gospel Arts News Service

Possibly the biggest news in Black Gospel music this year is the near tripling in size of the Malaco Records machine, which signals great growth in the Gospel music field.

"We're a little bit bigger than last year," says Malaco President Tommy Couch with a smile.

Malaco, of Jackson, Miss., is owned by Couch, Stewart Madison and Will Stevenson. Although Malaco already has many of the biggest names in Gospel, they chose to buy another major Gospel record company and a studio to add two full labels to their system.

The Malaco label features the music of The Williams Brothers, The Jackson Southernaires, The Florida Mass Choir, The Gospel Keynotes, The Sensational Nightingales, Louise Candy Davis, The Pilgrim Jubilees, Robert Blair and The Violinaires, The Truthettes and many others.

Most of these artists are produced for Malaco by the award-winning producer Frank Williams, eldest brother of the Williams Brothers and a member of the Jackson Southernaires. Among the albums under his direction currently riding high on the popularity charts are "Hand In Hand" by The Williams Brothers, "Hear Our Prayers, Oh Lord," by the Jackson Southernaires and "Live In Miami" by The Florida Mass Choir.

"Our artists are getting more exposure through television, radio and the Black press," says Williams. "Malaco's recording stars are reaching more people. As a result, I think that there's a growing audience for the kind of Southern, traditional Gospel we offer."

One would think that this was enough, but the mighty men of Malaco bought the huge Savoy Records of label of New York to grace their holdings. Giant, forty-year-old Savoy had been on rough times in recent years and had gone through a couple of owners. They immediately put long-time Savoy producer Rev. Milton Biggum in charge with a mandate to gear up for production.

"With our commitment to excellence, we expect to see the Savoy label regain its prestige and again be the leader in urban traditional Gospel. Our dark days are over," says Rev. Biggum. "The label has also added promotion man Sam Williams to help out."

Malaco Records Triples With Savoy and Muscle Shoals Labels

Among Savoy's current successes are "From The Ship" by Rev. Clay Evans and The Fellowship Choir, "Caught Up In The Rapture," by Bishop Jeff Banks and The Revival Temple Mass Choir and new releases by The Georgia Mass Choir, Donald Mulloy and The Jenkins Brothers.

But that still wasn't enough for Malaco. They also had to buy the world-famous Muscle Shoals Sound Studio of Sheffield, Ala. and open up the Muscle Shoals Gospel Sound label under the direction of Gospel pro Butch McGhee. Already on the album charts for this label are Vanessa Bell Armstrong ("Following Jesus") and Keith Pringle ("All To You").

"Muscle Shoals Gospel is primarily a contemporary Gospel label," says McGhee. "We have a more urban and pop sound and want to minister to non-Christians and Christians alike."

"We know we're gonna do good business," says Malaco's Couch of his three labels. "We're going from ten albums a year to 30 or 40. We believe the demand is there. We don't expect any million sellers but then we wouldn't be surprised at success, either."

In The News: Light/Lexicon of Newbury Park, Calif. has sold its Lexicon Distribution arm to a Nashville-based group who have formed Lexicon/Spectra Distribution. Light Records continues on with artists like Vickie Winans, The New Jersey Mass Choir and Commissioned...

...The Winans last album, "Let My People Go," sold over 150,000 and paved the way for the new album, "Decisions," on Quincy Jones' Qwest Records, which features the duet between Marvin Winans and Anita Baker, "Ain't No Need To Worry"....

...And Jesus is still the King of Glory and worthy to be praised!

A Night Of Flight With Dr. J

The Fundamental Foundation in association with the UCLA Center of Performing Arts will host a Tribute to basketball's Julius Erving, Saturday, November 28th at UCLA's Pauley Pavillion, beginning at 7pm. Mayor Tom Bradley will join John Wooden, Jack Nicholson, Bill Withers, Rosey Grier, Jerry West, Joe Smith and Bill Russell, among others in paying tribute to this legendary athlete.

The event will serve to raise funds for The Fundamental Foundation as well as the UCLA “Young Black Scholars” effort. The Fundamental Foundation was formed in 1970 and offers underprivileged young people of all ethnic backgrounds a chance to develop athletic skills, while learning about the “Five Steps to Success” concept as taught in the Foundation's Program. Thus far, more than 5000 kids annually have been exposed to mastering the fundamentals of sports and a successful direction for one's life through this program.

According to the Foundation's Executive Director Willie Naulls, “Dr. J's” lifestyle exemplifies the same qualities stressed during sessions of Camp Fundamental. “Julius is living proof that excellence in sports is best when as individual's lifestyle reflects a moral excellence of the soul and a Godly spiritual guidance. We feel honored that he has chosen us to host his western farewell to the fans that love and respect him,” Naulls said.

Meanwhile, Julius Erving, who's been a director of the Fundamental Foundation for over 10 years, is excited about returning for an event other than doing combat with the Lakers. “I've battled the Bulls, the Rockets and Willie's old team, the Celtics, but the biggest fight of my career has been to encourage disadvantaged youth to be competitive as they strive for academic excellence of their bodies, mind and spirit. The Fundamental Foundation scores high marks for providing the vehicle to bring these elements into reality,” Erving said.

Among the sponsors of “A Night in Flight with Dr. J” are A&M's Jerry Moss, Dresher and Sportscap. Tickets for the tribute are $15,$25, and $35 and are available by contacting (213) UCLA 101 or Ticketmaster.
